

Resolution

Day One, anew, the year can start refreshed
A blank page upon which we write as time ploughs on
As we ride it's wake of peaks and troughs
We etch a new chapter of our lives out in the New Year's Sun

Festivities behind us again, we can close another page
All the celebrations over, for that Long Old Year
Take stock and see what we have achieved
Were those twelve months deserving of a cheer?

We are still here to review and make that judgement
That's a good thing upon which to start
Many losses and blessings to count on
More memories to cherish and more scars upon our hearts

The circle of the year begins to turn again
Another carousel of life to join, a passenger on the ride
Hold tight to the day, and grasp time, each moment to embrace
Face into the wind, and breathe it deep, new life starts deep inside.
