

Hope-mass

As a counter to my more pessimistic view
I should review and look to balance
My view of dread for Christmas time
And see the positive side... a challenge

For all its fake and tinsel garb
It can be a forceful time and season
To bring the thoughts in minds of folk
To friendship, peace and reason

To take the chance one time a year
And look to love and re-build trust
And shelve the past and move onward
To the season our souls entrust

So, ignore the tack and tinsel town
The superficial side of the year
Remember what this time's really for
And bring all your family near

😊 ..is that better?
