

Luvis

Something that we all seek to find
Something that we say is blind
Sometimes we feel we've had it strong
Sometimes it doesn't last that long

Choking the throat as it starts to grow
With knots in the tummy to let you know
You've found it finally... at long last...
Then to see it rush on past

For it to work, it works both ways
For every night, and through every day
For every up and every down
For every smile and every frown

Complacency can dull its shine
It's all for me, and all is mine
Forget to give at your heartfelt cost
Forget to give and all will be lost

So quietly it comes and permeates
And before you realise that it's too late
That you are loved so strong and true
Love kills the cynical traits in you

Suddenly then the stakes have been raised
That luv'd up feeling that leaves you dazed
For the mystical "love" that's played hide and seek
Is in your heart and hand for you to keep
